Rotherham Learning Disability Directory
Introduction

This directory explains about some of the services that are available from the Joint Learning Disability Service and other organisations in Rotherham.

The Learning Disability Service in Rotherham is a joint Rotherham Metropolitan Borough Council (RMBC) and NHS Rotherham (NHS-R) service and there is a formal partnership agreement. The partnership contracts Rotherham Doncaster and South Humber NHS Foundation Trust (RDaSH) to deliver the health part of the service. This provides people with learning disabilities and their carers with a “joined up” service that can deliver health and social care services for people with a learning disability in Rotherham and a single point of access.

Who can use the Learning Disability Service?

People aged 18 and over who have a moderate or severe learning disability and their carers.

This usually means people who went to a special needs school or have had a learning disability since birth or in their early years.

We must make sure that the money (resources) we have is used to help people in greatest need of support. Wherever possible, we do give help and advice to others depending on the skills of staff and money available to the service.

Charging for Services

There are some services which must be charged for. When the person who is completing your needs assessment comes to talk to you, they will explain whether or not you will have to pay for the service you need.

You will then receive a visit from someone who will talk to you about your finances (money). You will be asked how much money you get and also how much money you spend in a week so that a fair amount is charged for the service.
How do you get help?

To get a service or other help, you need to contact the Learning Disability Service’s Interviewing Officer. You can do this by:
